A BRIEF SKETCH OF THE "DUQUESNE GREYS"

(VETERAN CORPS 18TH REGIMENT INFANTRY)

The Veteran Corps of the Duquesne Greys, 18th Regiment Infantry, N. G. P., celebrated the seventy-second anniversary of the organization of the original company on September 24, 1903, on the spacious lawn owned by the active command, and inaugurated a movement to provide a fitting armory for the regiment and a memorial of the faithful services of its time-honored dead.

The Veteran Corps was organized to keep alive the pride and interest felt by each old member of the Duquesne Greys and the 18th Regiment in the present organization, to keep and encourage those now serving the State and in perpetuating the history of the organization.

Organized in 1831, chartered in 1832, the Duquesne Greys served in the war with Mexico as Company "K," First Pennsylvania Volunteers, participating in the actions at Vera Cruz, Cerro Gordo, Pueblo (in the sortie from the Citadel into the streets of the city, the Greys were surrounded by a superior force of Lancers, cutting their way out with a loss of thirteen men killed, being about one-third of the men engaged), Contreras, Cherubusco, Molino del Rey and Chapultepec.

During the years after the Mexican War, the organization maintained its former high standard. Its members including many of the names of citizens known in all the prominent walks of life.

They acted as escort to the Prince of Wales on his visit to Pittsburg in 1860.

In April, 1861, the "Greys" enlisted as Company "B," 12th Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, for ninety days, and stayed in service one hundred and two.

The organization was broken up by reason of the large number of its members who received commissions in the Regular Army and Volunteer Regiments. The records show that the organization furnished one Major General of Volunteers, nine Colonels, four Lieutenant Colonels, six Majors, twenty Captains and twenty-nine Lieutenants to the Army. Among these officers were:

Colonel R. Biddle Roberts, 1st Pennsylvania Reserves.

Colonel George B. Hays, 8th Pennsylvania Reserves.

Colonel Robert Anderson, 9th Pennsylvania Reserves.

Colonel Oliver H. Rippey, 61st Pennsylvania Volunteers; killed at Fair Oaks, Va.

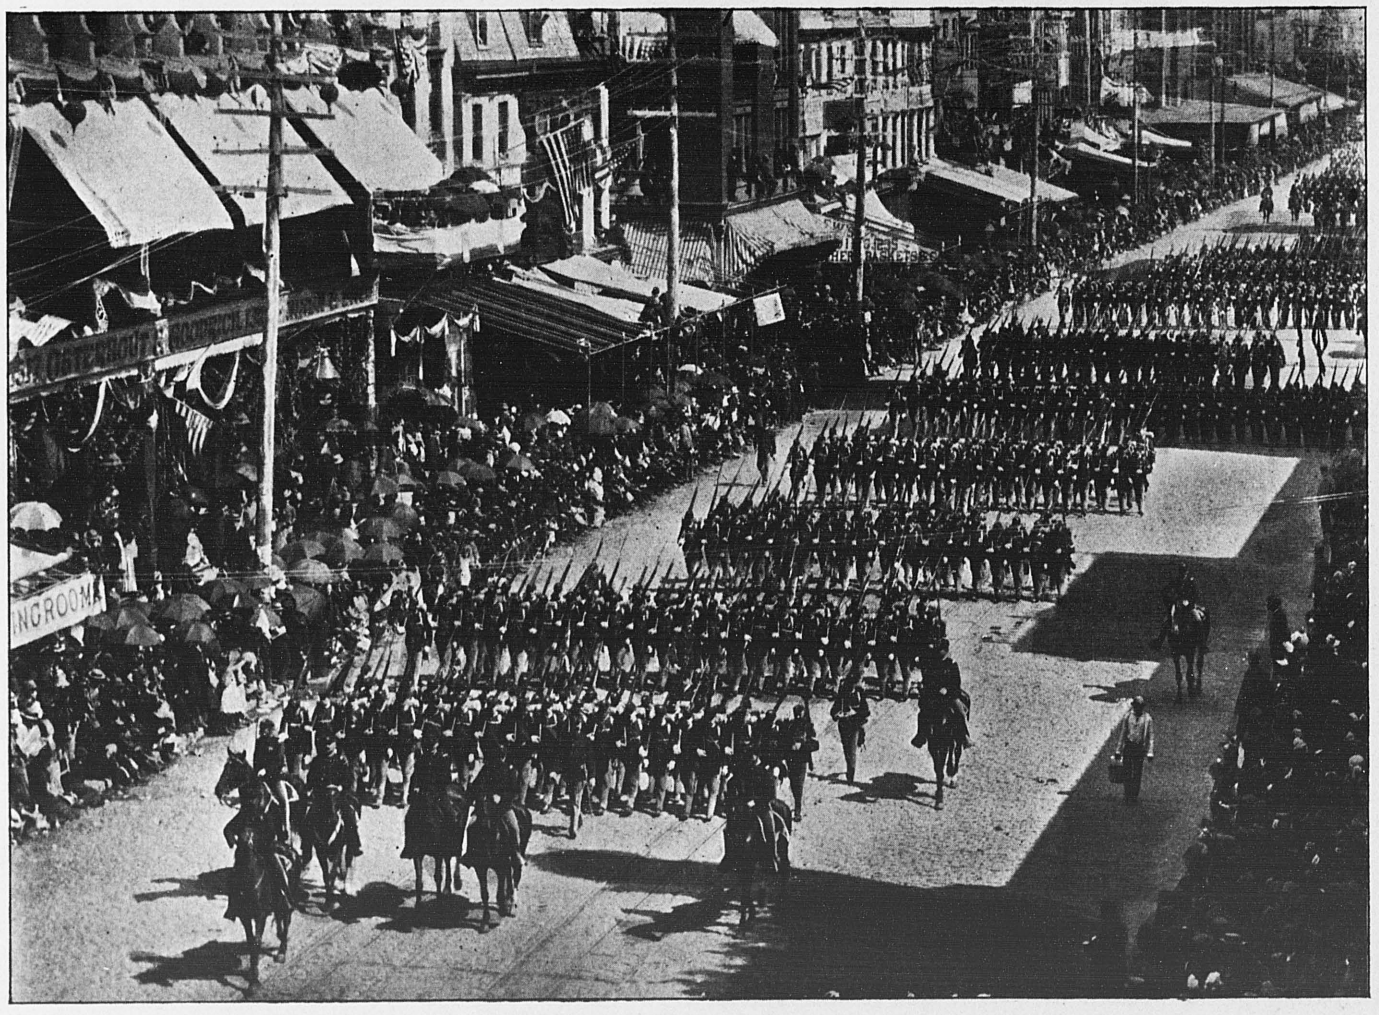
DUQUESNE GREYS AT "CAMP SCOTT," MAYVILLE, N. Y., JULY 12TH TO 26TH, 1875



18TH REGIMENT INFANTRY (DUQUE3NE GREYS)
AT PHILADELPHIA DURING THE CONSTITUTIONAL CENTENNIAL PARADE PASSING 13TH AND MARKET STREETS

Colonel Samuel W. Black, 62d Pennsylvania Volunteers; killed at Gaines Mills, Va.

Major Frank Ward, Anderson Cavalry; killed at Stone River.

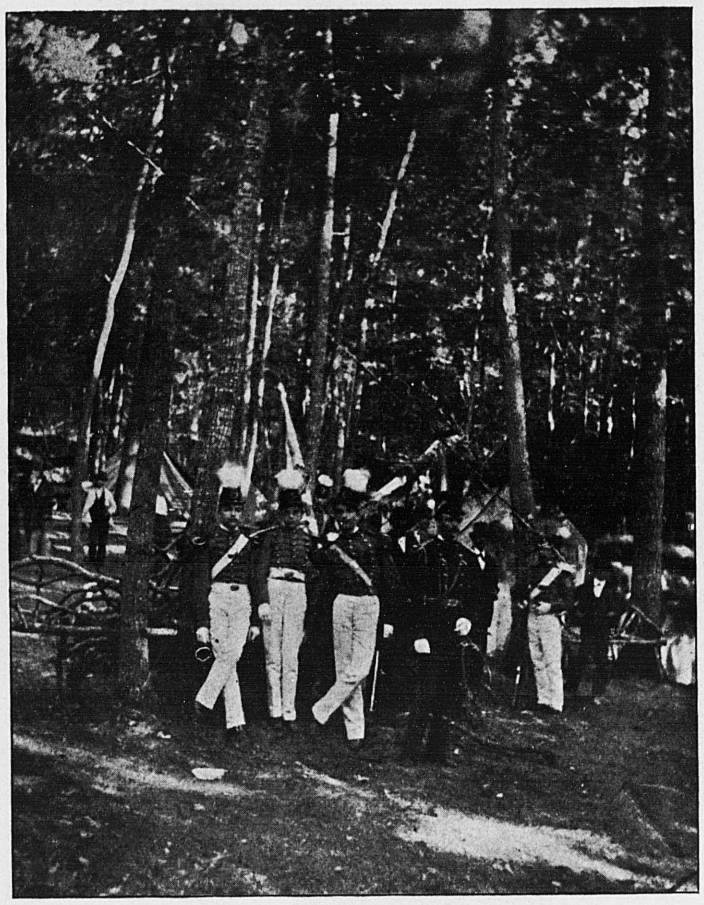
Major John Poland, 102d Pennsylvania Volunteers; killed at Malvern Hill, Va.

Of the 69 commissioned officers furnished by the "Greys," eleven were killed in action, three died in service, two in Libby and one in Andersonville Prison.

In the riots of 1877 the 18th Regiment Infantry, Duquesne Greys, N. G. P., as it was then and is now known, was the only State Regiment that preserved its organization intact, during the eight weeks of service.

During all this tiring and dangerous service the 18th, as heretofore, was conspicuous for duty well done and hardships endured with uncomplaining fortitude.

In the riots in the Coke district of 1891, the regiment reported for duty in six hours after the call and served ten days.



THE DUQUESNE GREYS AT CAMP HARTRANFT, BEDFORD, 1874

In 1892, riot at Homestead, it was the first regiment to enter the town. It has participated in every Presidential inaugural parade since March 4, 1873.

When the regiment on this occasion was selected for a competitive inspection between the 7th New York, 5th Maryland, 1st Pennsylvania, and the 1st Corps of Cadets of Massachusetts as the best appearing organization to go through the ceremony of dress parade before the President, and was personally complimented by President Grant for its efficiency.

The regiment volunteered to a man for the Spanish-American War. It was not kept in camp of instruction, but was detailed for garrison and guard duty; headquarters and six companies at Battery Point, Del; a major and three companies at Fort Brady, Mich., Sault St. Marie; one company on guard at Alliance, Ohio, where gun carriages were manufactured for the Government.

After being mustered out of the United States service over 240 officers and men volunteered for foreign service.

For many years the military organization was maintained entirely by its own members. During recent years the companies receive an annual allowance barely sufficient to maintain them on an economical basis, but there is no provision of public funds to build an armory and for years this noble regiment has been quartered in various garrets without a hall of sufficient size to drill a company.

It is hoped that a revived public spirit will recognize the necessity for providing a fitting armory where the present and succeeding generations may be trained to stand for virtue, liberty and independence, under the old flag and the motto of the organization, "Spectemui Agendo."

Programme of Exercises Seventy-second Anniversary "Duquesne Grays," 18th Regiment Infantry, N. G. P., September 24, 1903

1. Raising of colors; music, National anthem, "Star Spangled Banner," 3.00 p. m.

2. Guard mounting, detail from 18th Regiment Infantry, N. G. P..

3. "Duquesne Greys' March," composed by J. H. Ross and dedicated to the Duquesne Greys, 1870, 18th Regiment Band.

4. Exhibition drill by Boys' Brigade of Church of the Ascension.

5. Fife and drum, selections by Fifer J. H. Heflick and ex-Drum Major M. J. Kerrigan (Relics of Inaugural Parade at Washington, March 4, 1873.)

6. Addresses by several friends of the Greys.

7. Medley, National Airs, 18th Regiment Band.

8. Parade, 18th Regiment Infantry, N. G. P., and Veteran Corps Duquesne Greys, 5.00 p. m.

Exercises will begin promptly at 3.00 p. m., and conclude with retreat after the parade.

5.30 p. m., baked beans and hardtack and coffee for members of Regiment, etc.

Reunion of Veteran Corps, commencing at 6 p. m.

All bugle calls for Veteran Corps by Prof. Thomas F. Kirk, Sr., a member of the corps.

The exhibition drill which will be given by a detachment of the Boys' Brigade from the Church of the Ascension, under command of Col. H. P. Bope, on the anniversary occasion of the Duquesne Greys, is one of the best drilled bodies of young men in the United States.

They are thoroughly efficient in the school of the soldier, company and battalion, and in addition are taught patriotism and love for the flag and country. The regular duty attendance of this company averages ninety-five per cent. Part of the weekly drill is devoted to saluting the colors. This is somewhat of an original idea with Colonel Bope and the ceremony has proved very inspiring to the young soldiers. With music, the color guard troops the line while the command stands at present.

An organization of this kind would be a great credit to any regiment in the Guard. We should like to see these young men make a record for themselves in the State service as well as in their own Brigade.

Replying to a number of inquiries from several battalion and company commanders in the 2d and 3d Brigade regarding the Philadelphia Ordinance of Councils appropriating five hundred dollars ($500) per company, we herewith give an extract of the same for the benefit of those interested.

To pay for the support and maintenance of companies in the National Guard, using and occupying armory rooms or quarters within the city of Philadelphia, five hundred dollars ($500) for each company; total, twenty-three thousand dollars ($23,000): Provided, that the City Controller shall countersign no warrants drawn on this Item in favor of the commanding officer of any company, unless it shall be certified to the City Controller by the Adjutant General of the State, that the said company has satisfactorily passed the annual inspection provided by law, and also certified by the commanding officer of each company that the moneys appropriated for said item or said company have been used and expended solely and exclusively for the support and maintenance, discipline and training of said company, for which he shall account by proper vouchers to the said City Controller: Provided, also, that no appropriation shall be made for any subsequent year until the expenditure of the previous year has been duly and satisfactorily accounted for.

IT IS a common occurrence with many of the companies in the Guard to take refrigerators, immense company chests, board flooring and a lot of other excess baggage to camp. This is directly contrary to General Orders, which prohibits and particularly calls the attention of the Quartermaster to the reduction of this baggage to a minimum. Notwithstanding these orders the practice continues and the State is required to pay out several thousand dollars annually for extra freight charges that might otherwise be spent for better purposes. It has been suggested that in the future a special inspection be made of all company baggage while at camp, and the same to count in the ratings of discipline. Our annual encampments are but a school of instruction and the men should be taught to care for themselves in the simplest manner possible. It is a waste of time and energy to cart all this stuff to camp for what practically amounts to four or five working days.

GENERAL J. P. S. GOBIN, in his annual report, will strongly recommend a reorganization of the system of rifle matches. He will point out that for several years past the teams from the several organizations have practically consisted of professionals who devote no other time or service to the Guard other than to gratify their personal ambition to win everything offered in the way of prizes and trophies. General Gobin believes that the true soldier in the ranks, one who devotes his time and energy for the best interest of the company, should be encouraged to participate in these shoots. It it a known fact that some of the rifle sharps never attend drill or other State duties, and General Gobin states that during the industrial disturbances he was obliged to furlough, much against his will, several of these prominent marksmen.

SOME time since, writing on the signal corps company, our correspondent urged the establishing of that arm of the service, and of the company being located in one of the interior cities of the State, where the facilities for active and practical work exceeded those in the two larger cities. Since that time the public prints contained notice of the organization of a signal corps in the 14th Regiment, and stated that the detachment had purchased its paraphernalia and was doing something in the line of signal work. This movement is but in line with what has already been done in other regiments, and illustrates to a nicety the needs of that arm of the service. It also shows that the officers of the Guard, who realize the need of a good signal corps and its practical usefulness, are doing all in their power to supplant the deficiency that has become so apparent.

In this connection the question arises, why should the officers and men of the guard be required to do all this work privately, when the organization act provides for a signal corps company?

Considerable money has been spent on signal implements by the company and regimental detachments, and we know from personal experience that this works a hardship on the men.

We still maintain, however, that the signal corps company should be established as a distinct and separate organization, and should be located in one of the interior cities. The topographical features of the country surrounding either Altoona, Williamsport, Johnstown, Lock Haven, Wilkesbarre, Scranton, and other places of like situation, are such that ideal practice could be obtained.

Take one of the above places as an instance. Within a half dozen miles of the center of the city is a point where seven counties can be overlooked, and from which there is a clear sweep from mountain top to mountain top of a dozen miles in any direction. Coupled with this, take the fact that it can be reached within a few minutes by railroad, it can be seen that it gives splendid opportunity for training the members of the corps. Any one of the places mentioned above has within a distance of a few miles similar conditions tending to furnish ideal training grounds.

Aside from the ease of reaching elevated points, the records of the last two decades shows that in nearly every instance where the guard has been in service, such topographical conditions exist. At Homestead, at Punxsutawney, and the two tours of duty in the anthracite fields, all show that the seats of the trouble were in the valleys, on either side of which were hills, nearly always wooded, these hills in many of the cases separating the different bodies of troops from one another, requiring either telephonic, telegraphic, or mounted communication.

Where either of the former methods were resorted to, the training of the corps would have stood them in good stead, and the lines of communication could have been established not by outsiders, probably in sympathy with the lawless element, but by the men of the Guard themselves, and the service would not have been dependent on the will of any one save the officer commanding the troops. In addition, nothing that passed over the line would have gone through the hands of outside parties. While all care is undoubtedly taken that nothing is made public, yet we know only too well, that there are leaks that cannot be stopped, and that the newspaper writers do get messages and information from telephone and telegraphic employees that should never reach their ears. With a line controlled by the Guard, and with Guardsmen working it, the chances of such leaks would be reduced to a minimum.

The one important feature, however, in this connection, is the fact that the signal corps, if it were organized, and made a part of the guard, would bring into the service of the State a body of trained men, who at critical stages would place the Guard in an absolutely independent position, so far as methods of communication are concerned, and would give the commanding officer absolute control of all the means of communication between the integral units of his force of troops.

NOTES

Fifth Regiment

Companies "C" and "E" participated in the parade given in honor of the National Convention of the American War Veterans in Altoona on September 11, and in the exercises of Grand Army Day, at the same place, on September 12.

Major Samuel H. Hughes, who has been granted a leave of absence, goes to take up his work as cashier of a bank in Greene County.

Captain William F. Elkin, of Company "F," has resigned his position, and will devote his entire time to the practice of law, associating himself with his brother, former Attorney General John P. Elkin.

The companies of the regiment are hard at work on the rifle practice, and some good scores are being recorded. Among the men, the change from the Springfield to the Krag, along with the change in distances and conditions of shooting, has caused a drop in totals that will be noticeable until the new rifle is more thoroughly understood.

The new uniform question is giving some concern to a number of the officers of the regiment, and possibly will be the reason for some resignations, as a few of the commissioned force do not care to put the necessary money into uniforms to comply with the new regulations.

The line officers of the regiment, for the first time in its history, had a line officers mess at the Somerset encampment, and so well pleased were they that it has taken such shape as to become probably a permanent thing. Lieutenant W. P. Maclay, of Company "E," was in charge of the mess, and will likely be kept in charge as his work gave perfect satisfaction.

There is talk among some of the officers of the regiment, who were members of the 5th Regiment, P. V. I., in 1898, of having a reunion of the members of that command in the near future if a suitable date can be arranged.

Companies "C" and "E" both have in use the rifle record book, gotten up by Captain Jones, of the Sheridan troop, a page of which will illustrate the next issue of "Our State Army and Navy" Journal.

Sixth Regiment

Major Lucien M. Wiler, of the Philadelphia Battalion of the 6th Infantry, is making a record for himself in the reorganization of this Battalion. He is the right man in the right place, and it is confidently expected that not only will he attain a high standard of efficiency and discipline for the command, but that improved armory facilities will be obtained that will be equal to the best in the State.

Twelfth Regiment

Colonel Clement, of the 12th Infantry, adopted a unique method of securing uniformity of equipment for his officers. On September 8th they assembled at headquarters and inspected samples furnished by the leading military supply houses in New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio, and selected the best possible for the least expense. It is said that the officers greatly benefit by this arrangement.

Battery "B"

Hampton Battery "B" will fittingly observe the fifth anniversary of its reorganization into the National Guard of Pennsylvania, the 19th day of December. Since the new Dick Bill went into effect (August 17th) Captain Rees, of Battery "B," has been holding a school every Thursday night, where the scientific points of gunnery and the mechanism of the guns are taken up and discussed, and in fact every point is gone over that is essential to a light battery of artillery, both in garrison and field duty.

State

Editor "Our State Army and Navy."

Dear Sir:—I am a member of the Pittsburgh Musical Association and would like to know through your columns the status of Lieutenant Peter Dannhardt, who was formerly the Second Brigade Bandmaster. Is he entitled to wear the uniform of the rank which he held in the National Guard as a retired commissioned officer on such occasions when his present band, who still maintain the name of the Second Brigade, are professionally engaged.

Respectfully yours,

T. R. R., 10th Regt.

Any officer who has served fifteen years in the National Guard of Pennsylvania, not necessarily consecutive in any capacity or ten consecutive years as a commissioned officer, upon application, is entitled to a commission on the retired list of officers. On all State occasions such officers are permitted to wear the uniform of the highest rank which they may have held at the time of their retirement.

Captain C. S. W. Jones, of the Sheridan Troop, has recently completed in book form a record of rifle, pistol and carbine practice. It is just what the National Guard of Pennsylvania requires, and is admirably arranged. Captain Jones has the copyright applied for and in the next issue of the Journal we will give an illustration of its pages.

Colonel Albert J. Logan, Commissary General, has devised a very practical cook tent, the two-foot wall being constructed of boards. The idea is to establish uniformity, and he will strongly recommend its adoption by the State. In connection with this, he proposes to organize a commissary company of enlisted men, having them instructed in the culinary art, and when they arrive at a certain stage of excellence they will be awarded a certificate which will be a very good reference should they desire to secure this kind of employment in civil life.

The Colonel will demonstrate this in the near future by having a large tent erected in a convenient locality, either in Pittsburgh or Allegheny, and have details from the 14th and 18th Regiments and Hampton Battery.

Colonel Frank G. Sweeney, Inspector General, and former Lieutenant Colonel T. Edward Clyde, of Chester, are part of a committee who will take active steps to save the armory building occupied by Companies "B" and "C" of the 6th Regiment. The structure is heavily mortgaged and it is stated that the financial system has been rather loosely conducted in this connection. Some of the public spirited business men of the town have been appealed to for contributions and it is expected that a sufficient amount will be raised to liquidate the indebtedness. Colonel Clyde was connected with the Guard for many years, and is the immediate predecessor of Colonel James B. Coryell.

General Miller and the Division Staff will appear in the new special full dress uniform on September 29th. They are beautiful in design and very comfortable, and really more appropriate for social functions than the regulation full dress.

Lieutenant Rambo states that Troop "A" will have a strong rifle team in the field next season, and that they expect to give the older teams a good "go."

A newly designed button will shortly be issued by the State similar to those of the regular establishment. They will be of two kinds, bronze and bright brass.

GENERAL JOHN W. SCHALL, 1ST BRIGADE
WHO RECENTLY RETURNED FROM SAN FRANCISCO, WHERE HE SPENT SOME TIME IN GRAND ARMY MATTERS

COL. EDWARD R. CHAMBERS

Prominent among the members of Governor Pennypacker's staff is Colonel Edward R. Chambers of Bellefonte. He is a typical representative of the American self-made man, being resourceful, energetic and aggressive. In 1888 Colonel Chambers was appointed Deputy Revenue Collector in his district under President Harrison, performing the functions of that office with great credit and ability, and in 1899 his long and faithful services was substantially recognized by Governor Stone, who appointed him to the responsible position as Attorney for the Auditor General of Pennsylvania.

After graduating from the State College, he entered the law office of Alexander & Bower as a student and was subsequently admitted to the bar, and to-day is one of the recognized leaders in the profession.

Colonel Chambers comes from a military family. His grandfather, Elijah Chambers, was a soldier under General George Washington at Valley Forge, and was in the battle of Monmouth. He was fifty years older than his son, who in turn was fifty years older than the subject of our sketch. Colonel Chambers, although but recently appointed as an aide-de-camp on the staff of the commander-in-chief, is a promising executive and departmental officer.

LIEUT. H. A. GRIPP

Lieutenant H. A. Gripp, formerly Quartermaster of the Sheridan Troop, and more widely known as the German artist of the old school of Elkhurst, was born October 17, 1857, in Germany, and after graduating from the High School, he enlisted in the Imperial Army in November, 1877, in the 4th Battery Horse Artillery. His worth as a soldier was soon recognized by his superiors, and on May 8, 1878, he was promoted to Corporal, and December 24th of the same year he was warranted a Sergeant. Under General Orders he was detailed to the Paymaster's Department, and was selected from a number of competitors to serve the balance of his enlistment in this department. It was here that he served with marked ability and distinction and won the praise of his fellow comrades and officers.

On August 14, 1879, he was recommended as Paymaster of the Reserves. He took the examination and was found well qualified, and after serving his unexpired term, he was promoted to a Brevet-Lieutenant.

In May of 1880 he arrived in New York and subsequently took up his residence in Tyrone, and before long his love for military matters returned and he enlisted in the Sheridan Troop, National Guard of Pennsylvania. After serving some time he was promoted to Quartermaster Sergeant, and then commissioned Quartermaster with the rank of Second Lieutenant of this fine Cavalry organization.

Lieutenant Gripp went with the troop to Mt. Gretna and volunteered to be permitted to serve in the Spanish-American war as Junior Quartermaster.

Unfortunately, under the Hull Bill his former office was abolished. He at once went to Washington and in a personal interview with the late President McKinley made application for a commission in the army, which he received.

After waiting at his home for two weeks, Lieutenant Gripp was ordered to Washington, but found that his commission had been revoked.

Lieutenant Gripp married Miss Isabella G. Weir, daughter of Dr. R. C. Weir, of Tyrone, Pa. They have five children, three girls and two boys. His sons are now at the Emerson Institute of Washington, preparing to go as cadets to West Point and Annapolis.

In answer to several inquiries from the Third Brigade officers regarding the difference between the roll of retired officers and the retired list, we beg leave to state that the roll of retired officers is simply honorary and the officers on the retired list are semi-active subject to the call of the commander-in-chief. As an instance, Captain Harry Davis, retired, 18th Infantry, during the recent industrial disturbances, was assigned as Acting Regimental Quartermaster on Colonel Rutledge's staff, and as such proved invaluable to the command. His pay was just the same as that of an active mounted officer.
